

Federal Levies Can Be Blocked

The writer of a blog submission I located about an Federal tax problem seemed to be a woman. She writes:

"I used to owe the IRS about 25,000 dollars, that's with fees and penalties and with no hope of getting the bill down."

This gal should contemplate that we have a right to life and the government can't tax constitutional rights; or our very right to exist. Most of the public doesn't know this though, including IRS employees. She continued:

"First we tried monthly payments and that did not work out. Then the IRS levied our pay check from work leaving us with 400 dollars to live on."

This could have never happened if this woman had known about my IRS Terminator package. She could have studied up on how to demand and succeed at a Collection Due Process Hearing, applied what she learned, and all tax collection activity would have come to a halt; including the garnishment of their compensation. The writer continued:

"At that time we had seen an ad in the paper for Harrison Grave that will help people get rid of the IRS problems. We went to see them, not knowing that this was not even their official office but a temporary leased office. They told us it would cost total of 2,000 dollars to help us. We were so scared and had no idea what to do, so we accepted and began making payments to them to help us talk to the IRS."

In Houston, Texas on July 12, 2005, Steven T. Miller, Commissioner TE/GE gave a speech to IRS Tax Forums saying the following:

"I want to salute our partners who have been such a big help at these forums. I want to thank, in alphabetical order, the American Bar Association, the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, the National Association of Enrolled Agents, the National Association of Tax Professionals, the National Society of Accountants, and the National Society of Tax Professionals."

Mr. Miller informed those attending that he wanted to support them and that the help he was providing was assuring them of would take the shape of continuing to enhance the IRS's electronic and information services, renovating the Service's computers, and vigorously enforcing the law against the dishonest few who threaten the integrity of their/our industry.

This looks like clear confirmation that firms like Harrison Grave are really the IRS's partners in collecting taxes. Maybe this is why no steps were taken by them to end the levy. The writer continued:

"We submitted the information they needed to began the process and after nine month and still did not hear anything from the Harrison and Grave people we called them asking for an update on what was going on. Needless to say they gave us the run around. I even drove to their office in NC to see them and still no results. They took our 2,000 and did nothing for us. When I called them at that time and told them the IRS is Levy our pay check they said "We have a special team working on your case to stop the Levy's." That was all a lie. The IRS levied our second pay check... I knew Harrison Grave was a joke..."

Distressing stories such as this are why people in a situation of having outstanding taxes, unfiled returns, or returns filed under what is considered by the mainstream as a bizarre theories of law such as a Cracking the Code return should prepare by preparing in advance how deal with a notice of levy.

Follow me on Twitter.com/legalbear See you there. :-)